Dear Alumnae, Parents, Students and Friends,

It's an exciting time to be on board at Seton High School! There is such a true sense of pride, spirit and energy throughout the school by our dedicated teachers and staff, high-achieving students, loyal Seton families and friends as well as throughout the community by our amazing alumnae.

Each of us would not be who we are without the love, prayers and immeasurable support of the Sisters of Charity. Every student grows in faith, experiences life lessons and gains an incredible education during their four years here, and that is largely due to the Sisters of Charity who have made an impact on the lives of every Seton Saint. This past year, S. Teresa Dutcher retired from 39 years of service at Seton. She is the last Sister of Charity to teach here. She, along with the hundreds of other Sisters, have served as teachers, administrators and staff members, and we are honored to have many that continue to serve as board members, committee members and volunteers. Read more about some of these true Seton Saints on page 4.

If you have not been to Seton's campus recently, you'll definitely want to come visit! The construction upgrades are incredible! You can see photos of our new Halo Café as well as other upgrades on page 10. We are so very blessed to have the support of such generous alums and friends of Seton. THANK YOU to the anonymous cafeteria donors and everyone who has contributed so far to Seton 360!

Our enrollment continues to rise and is up again this year with the addition of 170 new freshmen! We are definitely setting sail at Seton! We are off to an amazing start to the year, and we are thrilled with the renovations and air conditioning that have created an optimal learning environment in our classrooms and learning spaces. We are incredibly grateful to our alumnae, parents and friends who support our school so our students can have more opportunities to thrive and excel. We hope to see you at some of our events this year so that you can see the many construction upgrades around the building. Please continue to keep Seton in your prayers as we educate young women in the spirit of our patroness, St. Elizabeth Ann Seton.

Thank you!

“Tenderness is the language the youth best understand.”

ST. ELIZABETH ANN SETON

If you've been blessed to call yourself a Seton Saint, then inevitably you've been blessed to have had your life touched by the Sisters of Charity. One can't walk the halls of Seton without being left with a lasting imprint of the education, prayer, compassion, goodness, generosity and sincere love of what the Sisters of Charity affectionately call 'our school' and 'our girls'. The 2018-2019 school year marked a monumental year in the history of Seton as S. Teresa Dutcher retired after an impressive 39 years of service here. She is the last of the Sisters of Charity to teach at Seton.

For over 100 years, we have had Sisters of Charity teaching and on our administration as well as serving on staff, our board and committees. "From when the doors of Cedar Grove Academy opened in 1853 to when the doors of Seton High School opened in 1927 through today, the Sisters of Charity have been and continue to be the anchor of this institution and community," said Seton High School President Kathy Allen Ciarla '87. "Whether they have been alums of Seton, served here, or both, they are true Seton Saints and such an inspiration."

Every Seton alum has memories of Seton that include the Sisters of Charity. Just to name a few - many may recall the strict rules being enforced by S. Mary Consolata Schmidt in the 60s. Paper Drives are a favorite memory of many, and S. Judith Metz encouraged the student body as the director of student activities in the 70s. How about those great musical memories with S. Mary Therese Thorman teaching music appreciation in the 70s and 80s? What a celebration it was when Elizabeth Ann Seton was canonized a Saint in 1975! Everyone loved the energy from S. Jeanine Marie Holthouse when she taught geometry as well as encouraged every Saint to sell her chances throughout the 80s and 90s. Who recited Shakespeare with S. Marie Irene Schneider, Latin with S. Mary Dolores Schneider and learned to write a story lead or do a yearbook layout in journalism with S. Benedicta Mahoney? These fond memories are just a few of so many.

“Cheerfulness prepares a glorious mind for all the noblest acts.”

ST. ELIZABETH ANN SETON

These Sisters and so many more helped us achieve more academically while guiding each of us into the adults who we have become beyond graduation. What is even more special is that they felt God’s calling to serve at Seton and also felt the rewards of doing so. We spoke to a handful of our beloved Sisters of Charity about their service to Seton, and their pride and love was very clear. “How do you sum up 44 years of wonderful students, teachers and administrators? I really loved everything about Seton,” said S. Marie Irene Schneider, whose years at Seton span from 1969-2013. “God truly blessed me with a love of teaching. I never felt that I was just teaching reading and writing, but that I was teaching students, with each one responding differently so that I had to find a unique way to teach each and every individual,” she said.

S. Mary Dolores Schneider

Focusing on the student’s personal success was also important to S. Mary Dolores Schneider, who taught English, Latin and World History in addition to serving as the student council moderator, Latin Club moderator and director of student activities throughout her 1986-2016 career at Seton. “Each job offered challenges, excitement, and best of all, watching the girls ‘take charge,’” she said.

Being able to witness students embrace the mission of Seton and living it out is something that the Sisters all agree they have experienced inside and outside of the classroom. “Seton provides many opportunities for students to embrace the mission of the Sisters of Charity through mission trips and service to those less fortunate within our own community,” said S. Teresa Dutcher. She added that seeing the friendships the students make with one another is also an affirmation of living the mission. “The Seton sisterhood is reflective of the friendships that Elizabeth Ann Seton had within her own life. She and her friends supported each other through many of life’s ups and downs,” she said.

Surrounded by love and support from Seton and the Sisters of Charity at S. Teresa Dutcher’s retirement Mass and reception.

“Be attentive to the voice of grace.”

ST. ELIZABETH ANN SETON

Additionally, Seton students have always participated in many outreach activities throughout the school’s history. “Students have always helped to create an environment that was open, welcoming and respectful of all,” said S. Judith Metz, who served as a teacher and director of student activities throughout the timeframe of 1966-1979 as well as a board member from 1988-1994 and 2018 through the present. “I felt effective as a teacher and my students were well prepared for their next steps in life,” she added. She has fond memories of being involved in several pillars of the school. “There were many opportunities to help the students develop leadership and organizational skills through the Series at Eight, being a class moderator and being a moderator of It’s Academic.”

“Whenever we do what God calls us to do there is much joy, and being at Seton was always joyful,” said S. Mary Kay Busch, who taught at Seton from 2007-2014. “The Sisters of Charity try to prayerfully and lovingly meet their grace. At Seton, the Sisters of Charity try to help students do the same – meet their grace and be prepared for the world they are inheriting,” she added.

“I believe being called to be an educator is a very high calling, and I was blessed by God in the experiences I had at Seton,” said S. Judith. Both S. Mary Dolores and S. Marie Irene (our favorite ‘sister Sisters’) said that their focus and message for students was to ‘do your best’. “God called me to be a Sister of Charity teacher,” said S. Mary Dolores. “I wanted them to be happy and proud of their work as students and as Seton Saints!” S. Marie Irene added, “I hope my girls know why we studied critical reviews and opinions, and that it is always important to express yourself with dignity and respect for others. Fairness and goodness were always important in my class.”

S. Judith Metz

“We know certainly that our God calls us to a holy life. We know that he gives us every grace, every abundant grace; and though we are so weak of ourselves, this grace is able to carry us through every obstacle and difficulty.”

ST. ELIZABETH ANN SETON

The beliefs of St. Elizabeth Ann Seton are something that S. Benedicta Mahoney was immersed in throughout her entire life. With her own mother attending 12 years at a Sisters of Charity-sponsored school in the early 1900s, S. Benedicta said she was raised on these values as a young girl. “So many people led through example in my own life over the years,” S. Benedicta said. Those values carried on through all of her missions as a Sister of Charity. “I taught at many places and loved all of them,” said S. Benedicta, who taught at Seton from 1983-2002. “It was a true privilege to end my teaching career at Seton where I could see high school girls embracing and sharing the same ideals as Elizabeth Ann Seton,” she added. “I saw students leading others through example at Seton, and so many have gone on to adulthood and are doing wonderful things.”

S. Benedicta Mahoney

Seeing those examples is something that every Sister finds rewarding. S. Mary Therese Thorman enjoyed her time and guided many talented students during her 12 years of teaching music from 1970-1976 and from 1979-1985. She especially loved her time working on staff with the Seton-Elder Series at Eight. “This was a gift to us all,” S. Mary Therese said. “My former student, Maribeth Brown Samoya ’81, took my job when I left and is still at Seton today. When she brings students to sing at our Motherhouse, I can see the very positive influence she has on her students who lovingly go out to greet their audience.”

S. Mary Therese Thorman

S. Mark Neumann

S. Kathryn Ann Connelly is not only a proud Sister of Charity, but also a proud Seton alum who graduated in 1950. She returned in 1976 as principal, taking the place of S. Mark Neumann who was elected to a leadership position in the congregation.

“Coming home to Seton was such a privilege and I loved it,” said S. Kathryn Ann, who served as principal at Seton until 1983. “It was a wonderful experience to encourage students and teachers in the way of Jesus and Elizabeth Ann. There was a spirit in both the students and faculty that was energizing and challenging.” She recalls some tragedies during her time as principal. “One student was diagnosed with cancer, and she was supported with such loving care,” she explained. “I knew God was very present.” Another student was killed in an automobile accident. “The presence of God was almost palpable in the building,” she added.

Current Seton Principal Karen Klug White ’92 and former Seton Principal S. Kathryn Ann Connelly ’50

Another challenge that alums may recall is when there was a gas shortage throughout the country and Seton had to close for nearly a month. “Certainly a time of great joy for students, woe for teachers and a sense of abandonment for the Sisters living on the third floor who had to move to the Motherhouse,” she explained. “The challenge was to make sure that the Seton education did not suffer. Teachers and students really had to work diligently when school resumed.”

“Hazard Yet Forward”

ST. ELIZABETH ANN SETON

S. Kathryn Ann’s leadership continued when she made some proud hiring decisions. “I think I made a significant contribution to the Seton legacy when I hired S. Brenda Busch and Susie Gibbons as faculty members who carried on St. Elizabeth Ann Seton’s message in their own time.”

S. Brenda Busch

S. Brenda’s job prior to this was at an elementary school. “Saying ‘yes’ to serve as the principal of the high school I graduated from was a leap of faith for me,” recalls S. Brenda. “I learned by way of much guidance and patience from the young women of Seton as well as the other administrators and faculty members.” She served as assistant principal from 1982-1983 and principal from 1983-

1997. “Whenever I had to write a letter to parents, alumnae or another audience, I would spend time in Seton’s chapel,” she said. “I would ask our gracious God for guidance and clarity, and I was never disappointed in how He directed me.”

Prayer and guidance certainly have played a part in S. Sally Duffy’s support of Seton. She served on Seton’s Board of Directors from 2006-2017. “Serving on the board is a ministry and keeps alive the teaching ministry of Jesus,” she said. “Since Elizabeth Ann Seton began the Catholic school system in the United States, this continues her dream and legacy.”

S. Sally has felt pride and many blessings in her role on the board. “As a board member, the resources are not ours but belong to God to be cherished and multiplied to maximize the potential of young women,” she said. “My favorite role has been to witness the development of the board and the strengthening of the president and principal model through the servant leadership of Kathy Ciarla,” she explained. She also has seen the students embracing the mission. “Witnessing in word and deed the

S. Sally Duffy

Seton students participating in the summer employment program with TriHealth is always a blessing,” she added. “They are so compassionate, dedicated, friendly, respectful, sensitive and mature.”

With S. Teresa embarking on her new role within the congregation as a member of the leadership team, having Sisters of Charity as teachers comes to an end at

Each year these supportive Sisters of Charity bring their best golf game to the annual Seton Athletic Boosters Golf Outing.

Seton; however, their guidance and foundation within Seton High School is solid. “The care and concern about Seton High School will not change,” said S. Teresa. “The Sisters know that Seton is ‘our’ school.” The Sisters of Charity are enthusiastic and generous through all Seton events, serve as mentors and judges for senior project, and many serve on Seton’s Board of Directors and on several committees. S. Annette Paveglio served on an advisory board for Seton in the 1970s and has been serving as a liaison from the Sisters of Charity Corporation Board for Sponsored Ministries to Seton High School over the past 13 years. She said that examples of legacy of St. Elizabeth Ann Seton and carrying on the mission are evident throughout the community. “Anyone who reads the Seton magazine or is in touch with what happens at Seton can see the powerful examples of how students and alums have embraced the mission and carried it forward in the various unselfish ways they live their lives over the years,” said S. Annette. “The seed is planted at Seton, and that seed carries with it reverence for the other, hopefully for a lifetime.” The guidance, prayers and expertise of the Sisters of Charity are an invaluable gift to Seton. They continue to teach, influence and inspire. “As a board member, I see the Seton sisterhood thriving,” said S. Kathryn Ann. “There is so much energy that I do believe St. Elizabeth Ann Seton’s legacy lives on. The faculty, administration and student body have imbedded the motto of ‘Hazard Yet Forward’.

Every year at Setonsation we have several Sisters of Charity join us to support Seton’s largest fundraiser.

Construction Update

The 2019-2020 school year began with $7 MILLION in upgrades and renovations that took place over 12 weeks! THANK YOU to everyone who has donated through Seton 360! These upgrades took place on the first floor and ground floor and included HVAC, new windows, new lighting and restrooms. Also included was the highly-anticipated $2 million renovation to Seton's cafeteria and courtyard space, thanks to very generous, anonymous donors. We are so excited about our new, beautiful, state-of-the-art Halo Café! Construction began in April of 2019, and students returned after summer break to this incredible space. The new cafeteria and student center boasts a coffee shop, a broad range of dining options, new furniture, energy-efficient lights, new windows and HVAC. The new courtyard will be complete in mid fall 2019 and will include outdoor dining, gathering spaces, a water feature and a spiritual garden. "Seton's generous donors are dedicated to providing students with the best possible amenities to foster learning, leadership, team building and the overall spirit of the Seton sisterhood," said Seton High School President Kathy Allen Ciarla. "It is evident how much our donors and community value the importance of a Seton education, and we are so incredibly thankful for their dedication and generosity."

THANK YOU!

Margaret Berndsen Calme Scholarship

Margaret Berndsen Calme had just finished her junior year at Seton in 1942 when her mother fell very ill and needed someone at home to care for her. It was during the Great Depression and money was tight. So Margaret was therefore never able to return for her senior year. "This was hard for her as education was very important to her," said Maureen Calme Bill '68, who is one of Margaret's three daughters. "She often spoke of the regret she felt about not being a Seton grad." This experience was the reason that it was a priority for Margaret to have her daughters attend and graduate from Seton.

Maureen and her family decided to establish a named scholarship. "Seton High School is the alma mater that my mother wished would have been hers, too," said Maureen. "In honor of my mother, her love for learning and her desire to have completed her education at Seton, my husband and I established the Margaret Berndsen Calme Scholarship to assist young women desiring a quality education at Seton."

Alumnae Spotlight

Lindsey Lanzillotta '15

Lindsey Lanzillotta '15

Lindsey Lanzillotta '15 was just a toddler when Disney's Buzz Lightyear coined the popular phrase, "To infinity and beyond!" And while Toy Story will forever be a part of her generation, so will the fact that young women are embracing more and more opportunities in STEM research and careers.

Lindsey is proudly part of a team that is going where 'no (wo)man has gone before' in regards to cell research and exploration through her current co-op with NASA.

Now entering her fifth year as a Biomedical Engineering major through the University of Cincinnati's College of Engineering and Applied Science, she has some impressive experiences added to her résumé. In her current co-op, she is a 2019 intern at NASA Ames Research in California's Silicon Valley. This is her third semester interning with NASA.

The clarity and opportunities that have presented themselves to Lindsey in college were preceded by her enthusiasm for biology and sciences while at Seton.

"There are several classes at Seton that helped me see my strengths, improve my weaknesses and grow as a person," said Lindsey. "AP Biology with Dr. Mullen taught me in a hands-on, heavy laboratory format that I have now identified as an optimal way for me to learn. One of my favorite memories was a lab where we used plasmids to insert foreign DNA into bacteria to make them glow in the dark. This and many other labs helped me see the excitement in biological advancements and how they can improve people's lives."

In addition to her science classes, Lindsey's academic foundation was solidified through several other courses. "In Mr. Villing's classes it was a requirement to read in depth and take notes that we were allowed to use on our daily quizzes," she explained. "While this was time-consuming and sometimes frustrating, it taught me how to identify important information and organize my notes as well as how to learn from resources outside of lectures and PowerPoints."

Lindsey recalls Mr. Collins' AP English classes as personal favorites as well. "He expects very much out of his students and pushes everyone to do a little better with every assignment," she said. "This instilled excellent skills in both writing and verbal communication that serve me well at UC and at NASA."

Once she was in college, Lindsey credits two events that put NASA at the forefront of her mind when she set out to look for co-ops. "In September of 2017, Dr. Alan Stern, principal investigator of the New Horizon mission to Pluto, came to speak at UC about the mission and discoveries that had been made up to that point." One image of the dark side of Pluto stood out clearly to Lindsey and made an impression. "I realized that the photo could have only been taken after reaching the furthest planet in our solar system and then passing it," she said. "This experience opened my eyes to the impact that NASA has on the world of science and exploration right now."

In November of that same year, she had the honor of meeting Dr. John Charles, the former chief scientist of NASA's Human Research Program, at a conference at the University of Kentucky.

“I was there to present my own research at the conference, and he was there to deliver the Distinguished Alumni Presentation,” she explained. Dr. Charles presented his academic journey that led him to NASA in the field of biology. “His presentation and the short conversation I had with him afterwards exemplified the extent of NASA’s mission, and the commitment they have to biological sciences,” Lindsey said. “This allowed me to see that there could be a place for me at NASA in the bioscience fields.”

that allows cells to grow with minimal manual assistance on the International Space Station. “I was able to support the development of an optical, noncontact pH sensor that will be implemented within the Biocultural System to continuously monitor the pH,” Lindsey explained. “I was also able to support the tuning and modification of the preheater controller. It is critical to keep the temperature within one degree Celsius of the body temperature so that the cells can proliferate.” That controller is now being utilized in a current space mission.

She has also been involved in several other projects with NASA Ames Research. “Far more opportunities than I ever expected will now be opened up for me upon my graduation,” she said. “I plan to take my last year at UC to explore these opportunities and plan my next steps in my future career in STEM. My work at NASA Ames has opened my eyes to a field of Biomedical Engineering that I previously never even knew existed.”

She applied with NASA and was hired for a 2018 summer internship. At the end of that, she was invited to return for a double co-op for the spring and summer of 2019. The cell team she has been working with is developing several new capabilities for a Bioculture System, which is a large platform
