GROWING

Dear Alumnae, Parents, Students and Friends,

It's an exciting time to be part of the Seton community! Our enrollment continues to grow, and the prayers, love and support from our alums and friends of Seton can be felt by every single student, staff member and administrator. The school year is in full bloom, and we are so thankful to be surrounded by the best!

There are many situations in life that challenge us to grow, and we are always inspired by alums who face adversity and find peace and empowerment. Read on pages 4-7 how Chelsea Meyer Farfsing '09 felt the power of prayer and support during a recent hardship in her life, and how she has taken that situation to make a difference for so many others.

We are very blessed to have the support of alumnae and their families who understand the value of a Seton education. We are so grateful to the family of Janis Seher Kelley '54 for sharing the memories and love that Janis and her husband, Tom, felt about Seton High School. You can read more about this on page 14.

Alyssa Lyons '14 traces her career in journalism back to an idea that she had as a student here at Seton High School. What started out as her senior capstone has bloomed into a successful career where she feels so blessed every day to be living out her dream. Follow along on her journey on pages 18 and 19.

We are excited to have 177 new freshmen as part of the Seton sisterhood, and we are excited to watch them each grow in faith, academics, leadership and service. We are proud to offer a well-rounded academic experience where our students find several opportunities throughout the school year to be challenged and thrive. We are so grateful to our alumnae, parents and friends who support Seton! We look forward to seeing you at some of our events this year! Please keep Seton in your prayers as we continue to educate young women in the spirit of our patroness, St. Elizabeth Ann Seton.

Thank you!

GROWING

THROUGH PRAYERS, PEACE AND INSPIRATION

It's been said that if you save one life, you're a hero; if you save a hundred lives, you're a nurse. For Chelsea Meyer Farfsing '09, both accurately describe her. Although she will humbly not call herself a hero and is quick to point out the first responders who are, her CPR skills that were put into action on May 8, 2023 made a critical difference in saving the life of her then-fiancé John Farfsing. Since then, she has become a force, inspiring others to take action so they can live longer lives.

THE PATHWAY TO SAVING ONE LIFE

Chelsea and John were set to be married on Friday, May 12, 2023. Five days earlier she was packing for her honeymoon, and John was on the Peloton. He was an avid rider who has completed over 500 rides, but this ended differently. Upon entering the room to tell John that a lasagna she put in the oven was ready, she found him unresponsive. Thanks to many factors, she was immediately able to recognize that he was in distress.

“The fact that I’ve taken CPR every other year for the last 13 years and that I teach CPR and emergency response on a routine basis, I knew I had to start CPR right away and call 911.” While the response time in Delhi is commendable at less than five minutes, Chelsea calls those the shortest and longest five minutes of a person’s life. “By starting CPR immediately, I was able to continue the perfusion of blood throughout John’s body so that when the Delhi Township Fire Department arrived, they could deliver the life-saving shock via AED that John needed to restart his heart,” she explained.

The facts are despairing. According to the American Heart Association, only 10% of sudden cardiac arrest victims outside of the hospital survive with no brain damage and only 40.2% of people experiencing an out-of-hospital cardiac arrest receive bystander CPR. “My routine training provided me with the confidence I needed to act.”

What was meant to be a week of celebration was now a week of desperation and uncertainty. “This was one of the most difficult weeks of my life, but it’s been tough to feel anything but grateful,” said Chelsea, who added that they were covered in prayer by family and friends. “You always hear people say that they can feel the prayers and I never really knew what that meant; but I’ve come to know it as a sense of peace in a time that should feel tumultuous,” she said.

As a nurse, being on ‘the other side of the bed’ was an experience she had never felt. “I was in unfamiliar territory,” she explained. “Though I have been trained to work in the cardiac ICU, children are not just small adults and adult electrophysiology was not an area in which I was well-versed.”

Chelsea feels so much gratitude for the Delhi Fire Department and teams at Mercy West Hospital. “The kindness and care that we received, not just for John’s heart but also for our particularly difficult emotional situation was a depiction of the best parts of humanity,” she conveyed.

With a wedding that had to be rescheduled, family took action calling everyone on the guest list to explain what had happened as well as contacting all the vendors who showed incredible grace and flexibility. “I always say, aside from it not happening at all, everything went as well as it could have; and there are too many coincidences to not look at our story without saying God had a part in it all.”

A few months later, Chelsea and John, who were now married, personally thanked the fire department crew with donuts and dinner as a way to show their gratitude and celebrate the miracle that was given. It was at this time that Chelsea started her journey in supporting the American Heart Association simply by creating a Heart Mini 5K Walk Team for the 2024 walk. The team began growing quickly after sharing the page on social media. As the team size and donations grew, Chelsea was contacted by a development director at AHA who wanted to learn more about their story. “We were featured on the Heart Mini social media pages as well as Cincinnati Children’s internal website to inspire others with our story and to help grow awareness of the importance of bystander CPR as well as raise interest in the Heart Mini,” said Chelsea.

On the day of the 5K walk, their team had over 100 participants and raised over $11,000. A few months later, Chelsea was invited to speak as a guest at the GoRed for Women event at Great American Ballpark.

“The way that heart disease, stroke and sudden cardiac arrest have impacted so many lives and inspired so many members of our community has further motivated me to continue pushing the mission of the AHA and to be a relentless force for a world of longer, healthier lives.”

GROWING

THROUGH PRAYERS, PEACE AND INSPIRATION

THE PATHWAY TO SAVING 100 LIVES

Chelsea's journey to a career in healthcare began while she was in high school after taking both a health class and a life management class in one semester. "I thought I was interested in becoming a dietician, so I reached out to a family friend who worked at University of Cincinnati Medical Center to set me up to shadow," Chelsea said. The first half of the day she observed a dietician and the second half of the day she spent with the family friend who was a nurse in the NICU. "What was so uninspiring to me about the dietician career was directly contradicted by the nursing role, which was fast-paced and required multi-tasking, critical thinking, prioritization and good interpersonal skills," she explained. "I thought I would be well-suited for this due to my ability to pick things up quickly, my desire to always be learning and my knack for getting along with almost anyone."

She recognized these strengths about herself throughout her time at Seton. In addition to being involved in student council and the manager of the softball team, Chelsea said she has a few core memories from classes at Seton that helped shape her into a curious and open-minded person. Though I didn't always enjoy his challenges in the moment, Mr. (Gary)

Collins always made us think twice about things and classroom conversations were frequently colorful," she said. "Everyone was respectful and encouraged to have their own opinion, but you better be prepared to defend it. We were learning about literature and writing, but we were also learning about how to lead with an open mind, consider others' points of view and treat each other kindly."

After making it through AB Calculus, Chelsea went on to BC Calculus her senior year. She was a student who excelled academically, but this proved to be a big challenge for her. Mrs. Lois Childers kindly helped her navigate through the struggles. "The life lessons I learned about perseverance and the need to accept defeat with grace are ones I have kept with me well into adulthood," she said.

While Chelsea recognizes that nursing has almost nothing to do with physics, she said the class with Mrs. Kathy Huschart felt more valuable as she saw how science, math and real life all work together. "Her enthusiasm about the subject was palpable and made the class more engaging and enjoyable," said

Chelsea. “She did such an awesome job of teaching us about physics and how it occurs in our everyday lives.”

During her senior year, Chelsea approached the Seton administration with an exciting opportunity – the Most Spirited School in the Nation contest. The top prize was a trip to Walt Disney World in Orlando, Florida for the senior class and a private concert by Natasha Bedingfield for the school. “With thoughtful planning and working with Seton staff, she helped energize the school and Seton won this contest,” said Seton High School President

Kathy Allen Ciarla ’87. “That drive and passion helped the school achieve this incredible goal.” It was an experience that gave the class of 2009 a special place in Seton history.

Chelsea took all of these life lessons and more through getting her Bachelor of Science in Nursing at the University of Cincinnati and her Masters of Science in Nursing in 2017. She became a registered nurse in 2013 and began working at Cincinnati Children’s Hospital Medical Center in the Specialty Resource Unit, which is the float pool. “We are trained to work in every unit of the hospital, including all three of our intensive care units,” Chelsea explained. She proudly worked as a bedside nurse for seven years before moving into her current role as an Education Specialist where she develops onboarding for new hires, continuing education and annual competencies. “I have a very unique job of helping new nurses build the foundation upon which they will build their individual careers. I aim to inspire the same curiosity and open-mindedness that was instilled in me by some of the amazing teachers at Seton.”

While she is not at work, Chelsea continues to make it a priority to raise awareness and teach about the importance of knowing CPR. “By keeping ourselves trained and comfortable in this life-saving skill, we can increase the survival rate and create more positive outcomes,” she said. “Let our story serve as proof that it can truly happen to anyone.”

Seton High School's commencement exercises took place at Seton on Thursday, May 23, 2024.
We are so proud of these young women!

"Through the numerous opportunities Seton provided me and getting involved with activities including House Government, Campus Ministry, Seton Helping Saints, Kairos and National Honor Society, I was taught valuable leadership and communication skills and was able to grow. Additionally, Seton allowed me to excel academically by giving me the opportunity to participate in the Honors Program and taking multiple AP courses to earn college credit. The life lessons I have learned at Seton have made me feel prepared and excited to take on college and my future!"

“I am grateful for the academic education I received at Seton High School, and I love that I was encouraged to get involved in extra-curricular activities because the most important lessons are not always taught in the classroom. I expanded my leadership skills by being a board member of Saints in Media, a student ambassador, a house government leader, a member of National Honor Society, Business Honor Society, and the Business Club. I saw the impact my peers and I made on one another in class as well as helping out in the community. Seton is the place where I found people I can always count on, whether that was through faculty and staff or my classmates. I will forever be appreciative to all that Seton has provided for me and taught me!”

“Seton has provided me with endless opportunities and experiences that have helped me grow into a well-rounded young woman and student. Seton helped me to showcase my many talents and taught me how to be a strong leader in and out of the classroom. Being a student ambassador and being part of house government gave me leadership skills and pushed me to be the best version of myself. The staff at Seton focuses on the well-being of every individual student and pushes each student to strive for more. Through my rigorous academic courses and the constant support from the staff, I can proudly say that Seton has more than prepared me for college and beyond.”

Security Summit

The first-ever School Safety and Security Summit was hosted here at Seton this past spring and was presented by Seton High School, the Archdiocese of Cincinnati and the Ohio School Safety Center. Representatives from over 60 schools, parishes and organizations within the Cincinnati/Dayton Archdiocesan area were in attendance to learn more about best practice presentations from the Seton Security Team, Ohio State School Safety Liaisons, Hamilton County Prosecuting Attorney Melissa Powers and other experts. The day included presentations, breakout sessions and a vendor fair.

“We have been asked by several schools about our security and felt it was important to share our procedures and best practices with them,” said Seton High School President Kathy Allen Ciarla ‘87. “We have been building up our security for several years through various ways. Seton received several grants to help cover the cost of the upgrades. It is a vital investment to protect a priceless resource, but these are all necessary in today’s educational world.”

The Seton Security Team consists of six retired Cincinnati police officers who have a combined 175 years of service.

Our team’s top priority is the safety and security of every student and staff member at all times. From policies as simple as no propping open school doors to a complex interior and exterior camera system, our security team shared insight, drills and training tips with all of the school representatives at the School Safety and Security Summit. “We are constantly evaluating and refining security measures as well as proactively planning for emergencies,” said Seton Security Team member Scott Albert. “Training students, teachers and staff is a priority for us here at Seton, and we were happy to share our knowledge with many other schools.”

Congratulations to Mr. Scott Brauch

We are wishing all the best to Mr. Scott Brauch who retired after teaching for 27 years at Seton! Whether it was as a Math teacher, Cross Country coach, Track coach, Kairos leader or the 8th grade Algebra class teacher, Scott has truly been a gift. We are all better and so blessed to have had Scott remind all of us to "Make it a great day!" every day at Seton and throughout life!

Planned Giving

At Seton, we are very blessed with generous and supportive alums, families and community members who believe in and have experienced the mission of Seton High School and all that it embodies. The impact of a Seton education and high school experience was one that lasted a lifetime for Janis Seher Kelley '54.

Janis went to St. Teresa of Avila for grade school and then on to Seton, where she met a group of classmates who would go on to be her close friends for the next 70 plus years until she passed away in June of 2021. "These women, affectionately known as 'Club', gathered monthly for decades as they moved through all of life's stages," said Janis' daughter, Kate

Janis Seher Kelley '54
Kelley Kraemer '84. "These relationships, born and nurtured at Seton, grew over the years to include expanding families and countless memories together."

Within this special group of Saints, the friendship between couples Janis and Tom Kelley and Carol Kraemer Allen '54 and Dave Allen grew as they shared a passion for the performing arts and more specifically for the Seton-Elder Series at Eight program. The Kelley family included six sons that went to Elder and their only daughter, Kate, who went to Seton. "One of our earliest memories is when our brother, Tim, played the role of Winthrop in The Music Man in 1971," said Kate. "The entire family, all nine of us, attended every performance."

About ten years later, Sean Kelley began to perform in the shows, and Janis started helping Carol backstage with costumes. These two selfless women devoted countless hours over the next few decades using their own talents and passions to support the Seton-Elder Series at Eight program.

"A generation later when my daughter Kelley Kraemer '14 attended Seton, she was in the shows for all four years," explained Kate. "My parents probably attended 90% or more of all Series at Eight performances over the past 40-50 years."

When Kate was at Seton, Janis and Tom also became big fans of Seton athletics. "They attended all of Kate's basketball and volleyball games and became good friends with the parents of teammates," Kevin Kelley said. Janis also started the grade school volleyball tournament at Seton to help raise money for the program.

Kate's daughter Kelley was a swimmer in addition to being part of the performing arts program. "Like the Series at Eight, their loyalty and attendance extended for decades," said Kevin. "Well into their eighties, our parents would attend many Seton sporting events each year."

"My mom often credited the Sisters of Charity and their great education and guidance as being the key element that enabled her to enjoy a long teaching career – one that lasted into her seventies," said Sean. "Still today, her brother, Fr. Phil Seher, says Mass at Seton, extending her connection to the school she loved."

Janis and Tom sent all seven of their children through Catholic schools, and Kevin said they would tell you that it was the best money they ever spent. "Seton empowers young women to think, grow and lead in a supportive environment that recognizes each student's unique gifts while working to develop them," he explained. "Our mom's connection to Seton extended through her entire life, bringing her happiness, countless friends and much fulfillment."

"The impact Mrs. Kelley made at Seton is still felt today. Throughout her life, she attended so many Seton events and made a difference for our school with her dedication and support. I am very grateful to the Kelley family for establishing a scholarship in her memory. Her legacy and love of Seton live on in the students who benefit from the Janis Seher Kelley Scholarship."

40's

Marie Berding Swartzel '41 celebrated her 101st birthday with family members at the Station House Restaurant in Centerville, Ohio. It was also the 83rd anniversary of her high school graduation. Marie enjoys reading all about her beloved Seton High School in the Seton Magazine and keeping up with the highlights of the newer generations of girls. Her memories of her Seton friends bring her great joy. Marie often reads through her class yearbooks and talks about the after-school hours spent on writing the articles to help create the yearbooks she cherishes. Of course, Marie wore her Seton necklace to her birthday party as it is so special to her.

60's

The Class of 1967 had a reunion at the Motherhouse, coordinated by S. Joyce Brehm, SC. They enjoyed a tour, lunch in the dining room and reminiscing with classmates and a former teacher, S. Martha Glockner, SC.

70's

The Class of 1971 had a 71st birthday party on April 25 at The Farm so they could celebrate their 71st birthdays together! S. Mary Barbara, SC who taught Spanish while they were students at Seton joined them for lunch.

Barb Backscheider Meister '73 retired in 2022 after 13 years as an executive administrative assistant at Macy's. She checked two trips off her bucket list in 2023. The first was a two-week tour of Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick in Canada and Cape Elizabeth, Maine. The second was visiting the Biltmore at Christmas in November.

Three generations of Seton Saints traveled to Ontario this summer to see Niagara Falls: Lisa Rolfes Smith '79, Jillian Smith Edwards '02, Grace Edwards '25, and future Saints Fiona, Ruthie and Claire Edwards. Here they are proudly wearing their Seton spirit wear while taking in the beautiful view of Horseshoe Falls.

A group of ten Saints from the Class of 1981 are coming up on their 25th friend trip this fall when they'll travel to Asheville. This group of Seton sisters, who had the nickname of 'the foxes' back in high school, have a special way of celebrating their friendship. The father of Lois Merkl Finnell designed and handcrafted

"The Box" for this group of friends in the early 80s and as the group has gone through life they have added special memorabilia to "The Box". The memories they made have lasted decades – from graduation to college to weddings, showers, babies, more weddings, girls' weekends, grandchildren, funerals and more. "The Box" has been there through all of these events; and like their friendship, always ready to keep secrets and memories. *Photo: Back row L-R: Vicki McCarthy Morand, Meg Lipps Clark, Diane Meyer Martini, Kathy Davoran Hogue and Patty Muenchen Durbin. Giving Our Time and Using Our Gifts

Wherever it may be that alumnae choose to live in this world, Seton High School has prepared them to excel in life, to hear God's voice and to do God's will. Here you can read about a Saint doing amazing things!

Alumnae Spotlight

Alyssa Lyons '14

By age 12 she knew she was falling in love with a dream. Waking up early before school to watch the news, asking her parents if she can stay up late to catch the evening news, and volunteering as a reporter for her grade school morning announcements were a few things that kept sparking the dream in the heart of Alyssa Lyons '14.

Several years later, she is living out that dream every single day in Augusta, Georgia as the first-ever women's sports director in the city. "While getting to live my dream will always be one of the greatest accomplishments of my life, everything isn't as glamorous as it looks on TV. It takes a lot of hard work and dedication to your craft in this particular field," said Alyssa.

As a three-sport varsity athlete in high school, she took notice to the fact that sports games were only seen by the family and friends that showed up to the field, the stands or the gym; while the boys' sports were being broadcasted for anyone, anywhere in the world to be able to view. "I wanted that for our teams – for our soccer, volleyball, basketball, softball and more – to be seen. Visibility creates attention and attention creates traction," she said.

At that time, women's sports in the public eye did not compete with today's standards, and Alyssa recognizes that fact was a big motivation for her. She took a journalism class as an elective and was a yearbook editor her junior year. When it came time to choose a topic for her Senior Project, she knew exactly what she wanted to do. "I was selfishly motivated to finally put an end to the need to be 'seen' when it comes to girls' sports," she explained. So Alyssa combined her two interests together – athletics and broadcasting – and came up with a plan. Live streaming athletics had never been done before at Seton. She knew it would be hard.

She knew it would be rewarding. She was determined to accomplish it.

Alyssa spent her free time on weeknights and weekends learning about videography and streaming. "I was often the only girl in the press box learning video systems, and I brought that knowledge back to Seton," said Alyssa. She then launched @SetonHSports and it began gaining social media followers. "I felt like I wasn't able to breathe until we held the first live broadcast in the new year of 2014," she explained. It has been 10 years since then and Alyssa said she can still remember the link being sent out and watching the viewing numbers rise.

"Creating @SetonHSports was truly the starting block of my career. Up until that point, broadcasting was a dream, and this is where the dream became a reality," she explained. "It taught me that hard work and determination beats talent; it taught me to fight for a seat at the table; it taught me to fulfill needs where they're often overlooked or forgotten; and most importantly, it gave me the confidence to know I am capable and worthy to be in the position I am today."

Alyssa used this experience as leverage to fulfill her goal of getting into the E.W. Scripps School of Journalism at Ohio University. As a freshman in Scripps, she was set up for success as they used the same Adobe software that she used in her yearbook class at Seton. "With this knowledge, I was able to take leadership positions my first year in college at the local PBS affiliate, WOUB-TV in Athens, Ohio. Alyssa graduated in 2018 with a Bachelor of Science in Journalism and the job search began. She found herself applying for jobs that had anything to do with communications. "I went on interview after interview, leaving each without any job offer," she said. "I felt lost and anxious and began questioning my decision to choose this particular career path.” One day Alyssa was venting about this to her mom. “She looked right at me and said, ‘Alyssa, you’ve never really given broadcasting – your dream – a real shot.’ That night I googled “best sports broadcasting schools”, and the first thing to pop up was the S.I. Newhouse School in Syracuse University. Their lengthy list of ESPN, NBC Sports and CBS Sports graduates sealed the deal for someone who never intended to further their education,” said Alyssa. She compiled a list of recommendations, sent in her application and prayed everything would work out. It was the only graduate school she applied for, and she got in.

She went from never having been to New York to having incredible opportunities and working alongside some of the most well-respected journalists. While in Syracuse, Alyssa was an ACCNetwork feature reporter covering documentary-style stories about Syracuse women athletics. She was also a freelance photographer and writer for Sports Illustrated, covering Syracuse football. “I picked up a press pass whenever I could, often freelancing while at the same time working a variety of jobs outside of school and working twice as hard in school,” she explained. “You have to be ready to fail and get knocked down again before you get up. If you’re not prepared to fail, you’re not prepared to learn.”

She knows first-hand that in order to excel in this career, one has to be willing to make sacrifices. Over the years she has had to jump on flights, pack up her car or spend countless hours on FaceTime to witness major family milestones like senior night, anniversaries and birthdays. She credits her family as a huge factor in elevating her to where she is now in her career. “I have the greatest support system. None of this would have been possible without my family,” Alyssa said.

Alyssa has been with WRDW/WAGT-TV in Augusta, Georgia since 2022. As the sports director, she is honing in on some of her favorite parts of being a journalist. “I shoot, write, edit and anchor my own sports content every day. I cover the Masters, SEC and ACC football which includes Georgia, South Carolina, Georgia Tech, Clemson and the SEC Championship.”

Alyssa has witnessed a plethora of historical moments. She interviewed NASA Administrator Sean O’Keefe during Apollo’s 50th Anniversary, covered Wisconsin’s 2021 historic winter tornados, University of Georgia winning their second consecutive national championship in California, Tiger Woods’ 2022 comeback to golf at Augusta National and both of Scottie Scheffler’s wins at The Masters.

“I’ve had plenty of pinch-me moments that only a few can say they’ve seen in a lifetime,” said Alyssa. “I’ll never forget the confetti dropping in SoFI stadium, seeing legendary Coach Nick Saban come out the tunnel in his final SEC showdown in Atlanta, watching Justin Thomas, Freddie Couples and Tiger Woods play a practice round at Augusta National Golf Club, or watching the galleries Tiger accumulates and the roar that follows one of his putts.”

She looks forward to many more moments like this in the future but also knows that there are many heart-wrenching ones ahead as well. “In my line of work you see the absolute best and the absolute worst in this world. One minute you are the person behind the camera to catch a state-winning touchdown and the next you could be sitting with a family who just lost a child,” she explained. “This job is as gratifying as it is humbling.”

And Alyssa admits that none of it would be possible without having a dream and having faith. “For most of my life I’ve been a planner, but now I understand that I am not the one in charge. God holds the key,” she said. “For as many doors that He can open, He can also close. When something is no longer serving you to be the best version of yourself or where He feels you need to be, He will guide you.”

Seton is excited to be offering a new Digital Broadcast Journalism class this year. The class is being taught by Laura Duerring. Laura has over 20 years of professional broadcast experience including internet, television, radio and print journalism, serving in both management and on-air roles.

HONOR ROLL

SETON CINCINNATI SGO

The Seton Cincinnati SGO - Scholarship Granting Organization was officially established in 2024 and benefits both the donors and the students at our school! This year, we received $157,549 from donors to the SGO! The donors all benefited as well! If you live in the state of Ohio and have a tax liability, this is a great way to receive a dollar-for-dollar tax credit and help Seton too!

Special thanks to all the donors to the Seton Cincinnati SGO.

All donations help a student in need attend Seton!

Visit setoncincinnati.org/support-seton/seton-cincinnati-sgo/ to learn how you can benefit from making a gift to the SGO.
